

The Power of Giving

There are numerous companies that take a very active role in their employees' philanthropic giving – it is called Corporate Matching Program. Some companies match their employees' donation dollar-for-dollar and others make a grant to the employee's favourite charity based upon the employee's volunteerism.

The companies below are engaged in some form of corporate matching – see if your company is listed! If so, contact your community investment or HR contact to take full advantage of this program.
